

ANOTHER STORM IS COMING UP COAST

If It Continues New York Is Due for More Cold Winds and Snow.

MANY TRAINS DELAYED

Western and Up-State Schedules So Far Are Most Affected.

What with the rain getting down a fellow's neck one minute and the sleet and hail slapping him in the face the next and the streets so full of chocolate colored slush and ice that the taxi throw up a spray like the aquaplanes the movie queens splash around on, this weather'd be enough to rile the temper of any self-respecting polar bear.

Of course, up in the parks and out in the country it was all very pretty like, with the lamplights gleaming through the silvered branches and shining on the slopes of ice, but down around Park Row, where people keep trucking about all day long, it was a different story. And the slipperiest places always were under innocent looking little puddles on the sidewalk.

The weathermen sit up all night in the Whitehall Building, that looks out over the bay, to hear what the wind says about a Sun man hour, and that it's got the best elements of this way for another forty-eight hours. The reason, he said, was that a wicked storm has been fighting its way up the coast from the Gulf for two days now, and that it's got the best elements of this way for another forty-eight hours.

The only thing that will bring peace and happiness and sunshine to New York again in the near future is the departure of the storm out to sea from the vicinity of Cape Hatteras. If it leaves the coast before it gets up near City Hall the worst will be over and that may happen in two or three days, the forecast said. But if the storm doesn't go out to sea it's going to bring more cold, strong winds and snow.

Railroad dispatchers are apprehensive that a return of the snow and cold may seriously interrupt train schedules throughout this section. Western and Up-State New York trains have been most affected, two Chicago expresses on the New York Central arriving here about five hours late last night. On the New York, New Haven and Hartford trains were delayed from thirty to forty-five minutes, and on the Pennsylvania trains from the West were held up about the same length of time.

Pennsylvania trains from Philadelphia and points South have not been much affected. Local trains in the upper part of the State were delayed in snow banks for hours in some cases. Street car service in Rochester was delayed yesterday morning and by afternoon the cars were able to run not further than a mile from the city.

NAVAL 'VICE SQUAD' UNDER SENATE FIRE

Preliminary Inquiry Begun Into Charges Made by Newport Residents.

BISHOP PERRY WITNESS

Newspaper Man Tells About Alleged Conditions at Training Station.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Preliminary investigation into charges by John R. Rathorn of the Providence (R. I.) Journal that a naval "vice squad" at Newport, R. I., had been ordered by naval officers to commit nameless practices in an effort to obtain evidence against residents of Newport was begun to-day by a special Senate naval committee, which met behind closed doors. The committee is to determine whether a full public inquiry should be conducted.

Arthur L. Fairbrother, a representative of the Providence Journal, read a statement before the committee detailing the alleged conditions. He quoted testimony from naval courts-martial at the Newport training station and part of the court records of the State and Federal trials of the Rev. Samuel Kent of Newport, who was acquitted of charges based on information obtained by the navy "vice squad." Mr. Fairbrother also presented a list of witnesses who, he said, were in possession of important facts bearing on the case. Testimony also was given by Bishop Perry of Newport, who headed a list of ministers signing a petition asking for an investigation.

The committee adjourned until Monday when Mr. Fairbrother will complete his statement.

NEWPORT MINISTER BLAMES NAVY DEPT.

Says It Commenced Vicious Practices and Methods.

NEWPORT, R. I., Jan. 24.—The Rev. J. Howard Deming, rector of St. George's Episcopal Church, testifying to-day before a naval board of inquiry, said he was convinced of the practice of "certain deleterious and vicious methods" by the navy in attempts to uncover conditions of vice in Newport. He said he did not "at first believe that the Department would sanction such methods" but that he "believe it now."

When asked by the Judge Advocate of the court, Ensign Henry I. Hymans, "On what do you base your statements?" the witness replied: "A letter from Secretary Daniels addressed to Bishop Perry." The right Rev. James De Wolfe Perry, Episcopal Bishop of Rhode Island, said he was sent last September, as he said, as he could recall. He added later that he had no personal knowledge of conditions outside of the court records in the case of the Rev. Samuel N. Kent.

"I saw the operators and that was all I cared to have to do with them," he said.

The Rev. C. F. Christopher of the Second Baptist Church, Newport, had testified that he also had no personal knowledge of the alleged conditions. He spoke of discussion of the subject by the Newport Ministers' Union.

The Judge Advocate pressed the witness for the names of persons who might have knowledge of the conditions alleged and the court ruled that he must give names as he knew. Mr. Christopher hesitated and Rear Admiral Herbert O. Dunn, the president of the court, remarked, "It seems to me you have a reluctance to answer." The witness replied that he had "no such intention."

Eventually the Rev. Stanley C. Hughes and Hamilton Fish Webster, both of this city, were named as men who had information which they had taken to Washington to place before the Navy Department. E. O. Andrews, general secretary of the Army and Navy Y. M. C. A. at Newport, later was mentioned by Mr. Christopher as a man possibly familiar with reports of conditions, although, he said, he gave his name "with hesitation, because Mr. Andrews was a witness in the Kent case."

MILO PICCO SINGS IN AMATO'S PLACE

Makes Good Substitute in Rossini's "Barber."

Paquale Amato was added to what sailors call the "binnacle list" at the Metropolitan Opera House yesterday. He was to have sung Figaro in Rossini's "Il Barbiere di Siviglia" at the matinee, but his place had to be taken by Milo Picco, one of the utility baritone of the company. Mr. Picco proved to be an acceptable substitute. His light voice and style were well suited to the part and his comedy, if not scintillant, was of happy mood.

Miss Garrison was again the Rosina, Mr. Hackett the Almaviva, Mr. Malatesta Dr. Bartolo and Mr. Mardones Don Basilio. The performance had a good deal of spirit and the audience was apparently well pleased.

ENGEL, VIOLINIST, MAKES DEBUT HERE

Young Artist Reveals Great Promise in First Appearance.

Gabriel Engel, violinist, made his local debut in a recital at the Wall last evening. His most important numbers were the first movement of the Tchaikovsky concerto and the "Kreutzer" sonata, in which he had the assistance of Giuseppe Hambrook at the piano. Engel's art was heard at its best in his opening number, a romance by Bruch.

He is a young player with valuable gifts and some excellent accomplishments, but an art yet incomplete. His tone, which is a violinist's first requirement, was round, full and sensitive in the romance and in some of the cantatas of the Tchaikovsky music. His style in general sacrificed finish to dramatic accentuation and a leaning toward bravura.

If the young man's technique had equalled the warmth and vigor of his playing, he would have achieved a solid success, but in the enormously difficult movement by the Russian master it became clear that his means were less than his ambition. But his promise is large and his music temperament such that with devotion to finish he should reach an enviable position.

TAX INSPECTORS HELD ON GRAFT CHARGES

Accused of Trying to Hold Up Leather Deals.

Income Tax Inspectors Daniel J. Bergen and Daniel J. Murphy, attached to the office of Internal Revenue Collector George M. Bidlo of Philadelphia, were arraigned yesterday afternoon before Commissioner James H. McCabe, in the Federal Building, charged with attempting to "shake down" Max Silver, a dealer in leather goods of 1574 Fifth avenue. Both men pleaded not guilty and were held in $2,000 bail for examination on February 9.

Silver complained several days ago to United States District Attorney Leroy W. Rios that the two men visited his place of business and told him that he had paid $500 less income tax than he should have and told him that they could "fix it" for $115. Silver met the two men yesterday and, trailed by Department of Justice agents, went to a restaurant with them. Silver passed $100 in marked money to Murphy. The money was found on him when he was arrested.

Bergen lives at 220 West Fourteenth street, Manhattan, and Murphy at 303 West Fourteenth street. Both were appointed in April, 1919. Bergen received $1,500 a year and Murphy received $1,600. After their arrest both prisoners asserted that they were the victims of a "frame up."

She said that the present salary of a full professor at Bryn Mawr is $3,000. The Bryn Mawr faculty has estimated that this should be increased 25 per cent. Mrs. Slade said, but the alumnae have decided to double that figure.

A small reception and breakfast followed. After their wedding trip to the West Indies Mr. Hambur and his bride will live at 115 West Seventy-second street.

BOY HELD FOR BANK ROBBERY.

In the arrest of a boy who was arraigned yesterday morning before City Magistrate W. Bruce Cobb on a short affidavit and held in $10,000 bail, police suspect they have one of the parties to the robbery of the Williamsbridge branch of the Bronx Borough Bank last September.

The prisoner, who is described in police records as John J. Donnelly, 18 years old, of 415 West Eighteenth street, is thought by detectives to have acted as lookout and chauffeur of an automobile used in commission of the crime.

HASKELL READY TO BE WET CANDIDATE

Willing to Enter Race for Governor, Judge Tells His Friends.

HE SPEAKS AT DINNER

Kings County Jurist Wants Prohibition Referendum Made Chief Issue.

Upon a "wet" tide Reuben L. Haskell was carried with a resounding majority into the office of County Judge of Kings County. Upon that same tide he will seek to reach the chair of Governor of New York, provided other candidates fail to make a prohibition referendum the chief campaign issue. This much Judge Haskell confided to 500 enthusiastic friends of his who gave him a complimentary dinner at the Commodore last night.

"Personal liberty may be down, but it is not out," Judge Haskell declared. "The present Congress passed most stringent prohibition laws, but the next Congress will change them. Caught asleep at the switch by a one sided propaganda which put prohibition over patient effort must now be had to provide the desired remedy."

As to his candidacy for Governor, or the possibility of it, he said: "I have only started upon my duties as County Judge, which are most congenial and I am not desirous of being a candidate for Governor or any other office. But if this paramount issue of the right for a direct vote by the people on prohibition is not properly presented by the Anti-Saloon League, or one who will stand for the principle that the just powers of Government should be derived from the consent of the governed."

"No passyfoot campaign will be allowed to go down in history this year. For the present it is sufficient to serve notice and patiently watch to see if the intimidating influence of Anderson and the party leaders and candidates for public office are still afraid to stand in the open against special interests and class legislation represented by the Anti-Saloon League."

Judge Haskell added a declaration that if the State convention is allowed to replace the direct primary then "the only avenue to stop passy-footing will be removed." John J. Kuhn was toastmaster at the dinner.

POLAND PLANS DEATH PENALTY FOR BRIBERS

Needed in Government Reorganization, It Is Held.

Special Cable Dispatch to This Sec. from London Times Service.
Copyright, 1920, all rights reserved.
WARSAW, Jan. 24.—The Polish Diet is preparing to pass a law introducing the death penalty for Government officials convicted either of stealing Government property or of taking bribes. Some such laws are necessary, indeed, Mr. Baral, the Minister of Railways, during discussion of the bill, said it would be more valuable to him in putting order into the railway administration and getting the railways well run than would be new locomotives or trucks.

The bill contains a somewhat doubtful provision exempting the person who gives the bribe from the same penalty so long as he becomes, so to speak, king's evidence and turns informer.
